HORROR!

On the Nickel Plate Railroad.

Twelve Passengers Killed and Fourteen Wounded in a Dreadful Collision.

The Dead and Wounded Named and Their Injuries Described in Full.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Twelve People Killed on the Nickel Plate Railroad.

SILVER CREEK, N. Y., Sept. 14.—An accident occurred this morning on the Nickel Plate railroad, near this place. A west-bound express train ran into an excursion train from Erie, Pa. Twelve persons are reported killed and fourteen wounded.

THE PARTICULARS.

BUFFALO, Sept. 14.—A dispatch from Silver Creek, N. Y., to the Commercial-Advertiser says: A Niagara Falls excursion train on the Nickel Plate road, under the management of J. W. Butler, the excursion agent, collided with a local freight train in a cut on the curve just east of here this morning.

Both the engineers and firemen saved themselves by jumping. The excursion train consisted of a baggage car, smoker and eleven coaches. Only those in the smoking car were hurt, it being completely telescoped by the baggage car.

The killed are:

W. W. Loomis, Erie.
John Meyers, Erie.
Henry Gebhart and son.
John F. Gebhart, Pittsburg.
S. Cameron, mayor of Waterford, Pa.
John Suder, Pittsburg.
David Sharp, Erie.
W. W. Rostatler, Erie.
Mr. Lyphir, Erie.
William Reynolds, Dunkirk, N. Y.
Aaron Parkhurst, Maysville.

Two bodies have not been identified. One is thought to be a son of Mr. Loomis.

The wounded are:

Henry Huyck, Steaitina, both legs crushed very seriously.

Samuel Tracey, Erie, head and shoulders injured.

Wm. Zimmerley, Erie, badly hurt.

Louis Linse, Erie, badly hurt.

Martin Rostatter, Erie, shoulder and leg injured; not seriously.

Archie Campbell, Erie, seriously injured.

Edwin W. Marble, Erie, legs broken; seriously.

Charles Schendler, Erie, head and shoulders injured; seriously.

Charles Diller, Erie, right leg broken and head cut.

J. P. Herrington, Erie, badly injured.

Joseph Tapper, Summit, Pa., badly bruised.

Philo Linte, residence unknown, legs crushed.

Mr. Coburn, Titusville, injures slight.

The accident seems to have been caused by a misunderstanding of telegraphic orders.

A Slugging Match.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The six round glove contest between Paddy Ryan and Frank Glover, the champion heavyweight of Illinois, took place at Cheltenham Beach last night.

It resulted in a regular slugging match and was stopped by the town of Lake police at the end of the second round. One of the referees decided that Ryan had the best of the fight and the other declared it a draw.

The fight took place on a boat, upon which a twenty-four foot ring was made in the rain. From the start to the finish the fight was a vicious one on the part of both men, it being necessary for the referees to rush between them with umbrellas and clubs and haul them apart. The fight was stopped at 10:50 a. m., and the drenched and disgusted spectators made a rush for the train.

THE FIRST DAY.

The Great Inter-State Fair Opens With the Brightest Prospects.

This was another day of hurry and bustle at the Inter-State fair grounds, and although most of the time was spent in arranging exhibits there was quite a crowd of spectators, especially to witness the track exercise in the morning. All the flyers were out and lively brushes between the jockeys were enjoyed.

Gust Glidden, Frank VanAlstine, John Draker and a number of strangers had their horses on the track and whirled the last quarter in great shape, while Ed. Orff, Will McKinnie, Jack Read, Will Fleming, A. C. Perrin and Councilman Read watched the movements and timed the blooded racers. The colt race is much talked of, but there is blood on the moon for the pacing race. In this are entered Will McKinnie's "Billy F," and O. A. Simon's "Daisy Scott." These are old turf rivals and will show all the speed they have. Van Alstine had Judge Hoadly out this morning and he turned the home stretch in a 2:29 gait like clock work. There is altogether the finest field of horses ever called together in Indiana, no fair or race excepted, and every horseman will back the assertion.

The capacious fair grounds are neat as a pin and everything looks fresh.

Mr. J. H. Bass' fine herd of blooded cattle were driven in to-day and beside this there was a steady stream of draught horses, fine sheep, plump porkers, and about everything that goes to make up a fair.

George Gordon is the busiest man on the grounds, barring our beloved friend, Wright Rockhill. Mr. Gordon has jurisdiction of the poultry and pet stock show. In the latter department Editor D. W. Page, makes a most interesting exhibit and admirers of oddities and beauties in the animal and feathered world, can make all necessary arrangements to go into ecstacies.

The art and fancy work department as well as the display of soil products is a study, and indeed if this fair does not please a varied fancy there is little use to attempt it this side of Paradise where the lion and lamb are reputed to have gamboled on the green.

There is a system about everything on the grounds, and pleasant but stern people have hold of the reins.

In the main exhibition hall, D. N. Foster occupies the center with a handsome display of furniture, carpets and tapestry, Dawson & Karns will also exhibit a couple of their pianos with Mr. Foster's display. D. H. Baldwin & Co. have reserved a large and excellent place for the exhibition of pianos and organs, fronting on the entrance of the Annex hall. On the north side Mr. Christian Wiese, of Adams township, and Jacob Tremple, of Wayne township have the finest display of apples ever seen at a fair in this county. Pfeiffer & Schlatter, the hardware men, have the space facing the main entrance, while on one side of the entrance will be found a collection of fine shells by M. A. Kelly, of Jacksonville, Fla., and on the other Prof. S. P. Madraz, said to be the finest card writer in the world.

Upstairs to the left will be found the exhibit of the Rayman Manufacturing company, of Corry, Pa. Their specialty is baby jumpers. They have on exhibition an exact fac simile of the baby jumper sent President Cleveland by the Young Men's Democratic club of Corry on his wedding day. The president gracefully acknowledged the present. Parents should not fail to see this novel as well as useful bit of nursery furniture, and, by the way, the company is in want of agents, state and county. The jumpers are cheap, and meet with a very ready sale, and any live, energetic man can make a mint of money by pushing the article.

The balance of the upper department principally devoted to the exhibition of fancy goods, such as needle work, etc. In the center, however, The Peters Box & Lumber Co., will make a handsome display of furniture, something that will surpass anything ever seen here. The Bickford manufacturing company will also exhibit a line of folding beds. In the Annex Staub Bros. and T. R. Pickard show a full line of stoves, ranges, etc., and other exhibits will come in to-day. The basement is devoted to vegetables and poultry. Talking about poultry—there will be more poultry on exhibition here than at any fair heretofore held in the state. One fancier from Elyria, O., has seven pages of entries, including in his layout almost every known breed of chickens.

The stock department will also be better filled than at any time before. C. W. Baker, of Mansfield, O., has fourteen pens of Chester white hogs. They are monsters in size, the largest weighing over 700 pounds. The Hereford and Jersey Cattle company, of South Bend, has a whole row of stalls filled with fine cattle. Several car loads of sheep came in last night and before noon every stall on the ground was filled. The horse department will be exceptionally fine. Messrs. Fisher & Gilson, of Goderich, Ontario, have nine stalls of Dominion draft horses. They are mastodons in size. One of them, a four-year-old, weighs 1,700 pounds. Another a yearling colt, coming two years in February, took first prize at the Chicago fair, from which place they were shipped here. The entire speed department is filled, and nearly all the racers are on the grounds. All that is necessary now to insure the complete success of the fair is good weather. The management has spared no effort no expense to satisfy everybody, and the people should now show their appreciation of their efforts by bestowing upon the fair a liberal patronage.

NOTES.

Everybody is going.

The track is in great shape.

The hill is dotted with tents.

The pacing race occurs Thursday.

This is the biggest fair on record.

The city band will be on hand tomorrow.

The balloon race in the sky will be a great card Thursday.

There was a race for twenty dollars on the track this morning.

Will McKinnie's "Billy F." paced a mile in 2:24¼ this morning.

Louis Brames has the pop, lemonade and celtzer privileges under the grand stand.

There is a general disposition to suspend all business Thursday and make it a fair holiday.

The Washington street gate is alone used for the entry of vehicles which are permitted to go out only at the Jefferson street gate. This avoids conflicts and collisions.

In the poultry show Geo. P. Gordon has 72 entries, McDavis 60, S. E. Werst 160, D. F. Heiley 40, E. J. Koppenhafer 60, H. R. Engel 20, Daniel Christian 20, and there are small exhibitors who have 200 birds for show, making a total of 1,264 birds.

Judge Hench decided this case to-day: Wm. McIntyre vs. Lewis H. Oliver and Sarah Oliver on foreclosure. Judgment on finding for plaintiff for $148.77.

Shot by a Scoundrel.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 14.—The Courier Journal has private advices from Manchester, Clay county, in the mountain district of Kentucky, that on Sunday evening Ex-Judge B. P. White was shot twice from ambush by an unknown person and instantly killed. White served several terms as county judge and at the last August election had been elected superintendent of the common schools. He was a cousin of Hon. John D. White, the former noted Kentucky congressman who so frequently enlivened the proceedings of the house, but unlike his cousin, was a democrat, the only one in the family. No clue has been obtained as to the perpetrator of the murder.

The New Public Printer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Thomas E. Benedict, of New York, has filed with the secretary of the interior his official bond in the sum of $100,000 as public printer, which was approved. Upon the state department being notified of this fact, his commission was issued. Mr. Benedict takes charge of the office to-day.

The president to-day appointed Simeon H. Calhoun collector of internal revenue for the district of Nebraska.

Another Shock.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 14.—The news from Summerville last night was not so favorable. A shock occurred there at 9:30 yesterday morning, which was sufficient to shake the buildings considerably, and one occurred at 1 o'clock which overthrew small brick buildings connected with a saw mill. No one was injured. There are now comparatively few persons remaining in Summerville.

An Assassin Confesses.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 14.—Dispatches from Covington, Tipton county, Tenn., states that Sheriff Carter, of that county has in jail there, a man who is supposed to be the assassin of the late ex-Mayor Bowman, of East St. Louis. During his imprisonment the man made a confession of the murder of the mayor and said he was paid for it by a vice president of a railroad company.

MAINE!

Is Again Slightly Magnetized.

The Republicans Win a Victory, but Losses are Recorded Against Them in Most Instances.

The Opening Campaign at Columbia City---A Boy Seriously Hurt.

MAINE.

The Election Not a Great Republican Victory.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—Returns from all but three towns in Cumberland county show that the entire republican tickets are elected. The returns so far received show that the state senate will compose twenty-six republicans and five democrats. The last senate was entirely republican. The house of representative in 1885 composed 115 republicans, 34 democrats and 2 greenbackers. The republicans have gained twelve and lost two and four more in doubt. If the doubtful ones are all democratic, the republicans will have a gain of six over last year.

Seventy towns give: Bodwell, 19,414; Edwards, 15,625, and Clark, 1,038, against Robie in 1884, 21,951; Redman, 16,261; prohibition, 308; greenbackers, 809, and scattering, 3. Republican plurality, 3,791, against 5,690, a republican loss of 1,899.

The total vote of the state will be above 137,000, which is extraordinarily large for an off year. Out of this aggregate the third party vote will not exceed 3,500, far less than was expected by the leaders of the movement.

AUGUSTA, Sept. 14.—Chairman Manley said this afternoon Bodwell's majority over Edwards will reach fully 14,000. The legislature will be nearly as strongly republican as two years ago.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The New York Sun in commenting on the Maine elections, says: "The republicans carried Maine yesterday, as was expected, but the returns show decided republican losses, due, in the main, to the prohibitionists, and the inconsistency of General Dow's present, with his former position, with regard to the enforcement of prohibition in Maine. The vigorous speeches of Mr. Blaine undoubtedly kept down the vote of the prohibitionists, yet it is surprisingly large for a separate prohibition party in a state that has enjoyed the blessings of prohibition for a generation. General Dingley, for congress, ran far ahead of his ticket. Tom Reed pulled through as usual. Mr. Reed has good luck as well as brains. The Maine election has a lesson of alarm and warning for the republicans in other states. If, in spite of Mr. Blaine's brilliant and vigorous leadership, the prohibitionists are so determined and numerous in prohibition Maine, may they not work serious and perhaps fatal damage to the republican party in New York and even in Pennsylvania?

THE CAMPAIGN.

Governor Gray and Judge Lowry in the North.

Special to the Indianapolis Sentinel.

COLUMBIA CITY, Ind., Sept. 13.—Governor Gray opened the campaign in northeastern Indiana at this place on Saturday last. The meeting, although no special effort had been made, was a splendid outpouring of the democracy of Whitley, many being present from surrounding counties. A noticeable feature of this, the first meeting in the county, was the large number of republicans in attendance. Governor Gray's speech was a masterly effort, enthusing, by its plain and convincing statement of facts, the democrats present, as well as carrying conviction to the hearts of many republicans who came to hear. Void of abuse, truthful in its statements, it was just such an address that republican orators cannot refute.

In the evening the governor also spoke to a very large meeting at Cherubusco, many voters attending from Allen and Noble counties. A large cavalry escort, headed by a fine band, met the governor's carriage a mile from town, and escorted him to the hotel. In the evening the town was brilliantly illuminated.

Hon. R. Lowry, the next congressman from this district, closed both meetings with short addresses, giving an account of his stewardship in the session of congress just closed, and dealing the republican indicted, boodle candidate many telling shots.

Governor Gray has always been a favorite in this section of the state. His coming here has done much good. Set down the Twelfth for a very large democratic majority, state and congressional.

FOR CONGRESS.

A Stubborn Contest Promised at Lafayette.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 14.—The republican convention of the ninth congressional district met here this morning. There are eleven candidates for nomination and a protracted contest is looked for. The ninth district comprises Benton, Warren, Tipton, Hamilton, Clinton, Howard, Boon and Tippecanoe counties, and of these each has a candidate for the nomination on the congressional ticket except Tipton. Howard presents Major J. F. Elliott; Boone, Dr. Scuil; Hamilton, Joseph R. Gray; Clinton, Joseph B. Cheadle, editor of the Frankfort Banner. Warren county presents two candidates. Benton names U. Z. Wiley, and Tippecanoe will be divided on first ballot between B. Wilson Smith, Col. Tullis and B. W. Langdon.

PITTSBURG.

Foreign Labor Threatened---A New Political Machine.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 14.—Pittsburg is threatened with an influx of foreign workmen. The depression felt in various parts of Great Britain, and especially in the iron and steel producing districts, is having the effect of driving this skilled labor into American fields. Vigorous opposition to the movement is expected from the labor organizations of this country.

A secret organization for the sole purpose of purifying politics in Pittsburg and Alleghany City has been formed here. The organization already includes over seven hundred of the staunchest and most influential business and professional men of the two cities, and it is the intention not to take an active part in any political fight until the membership has reached 10,000.

ACCIDENT.

A Seventeen-Year-Old Boy Seriously Injured by Being Run Over by a Street Car.

LAFAYETTE, Sept. 14.—At about noon yesterday, Will Mosier, a seventeen-year old son of John Mosier, merchant tailor was injured, probably fatally, by being run over by a street car. Young Mosier had a bundle under his arm, and attempted to jump on the car while it was in motion. His foot slipped on the platform and he swung under the car, a wheel striking him in the center of the forehead and running completely over his head, cutting it open. It is also feared his spinal column is broken. He has suffered terribly, having been conscious during the whole of the time since the accident.

Elopement and Marriage.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Sept. 14.—Miss Ella Wilson, daughter of Greenville Wilson, a prominent farmer and fast-horse trainer of this county, who was attending the fair here, left for her home in Waldron on Friday evening, and on Saturday morning sent word to her sister, who was here, that she was sick and would not come up that day. In the afternoon she passed through here on the train in company with S. Gentry Hacker, of Rushville, for Indianapolis, where they were married in spite of the opposition of her father.

A Good Petition.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The Women's National Temperance union has drawn up a petition to congress urging that in view of the alarming increase of assaults upon women and young girls, the legal age of consent be raised, as is proposed in the bill now before the senate, to eighteen years.

Fire Record.

ELGIN, Ills., Sept. 14.—The Duber's opera house block burned this morning. George M. Peck, dry goods and groceries, sustained a loss of $45,000; insur. $35,000. Allen Bros., hats and caps, loss $5,000; insurance not given. The loss on the building is $40,000; insurance $30,000.

The Democrats.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 14.—The democratic state convention met to-day and nominated a state ticket.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The London Press Comments on the Parnell Bill.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Standard says: "Parnell's bill is a most disappointing document. It would have been more candid to label it "A measure for arbitration of eviction and the reduction of rents by one half." If it became a law it would put every land owner in Ireland at the mercy of local leagues. It is difficult to believe that Parnell framed the project in a serious spirit." The Telegraph says: "The most ultra Parnellite follower of Gladstone has no excuse for doubting that the so called temporary relief bill is an ad captandum project of the most unblushing kind."

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Greek Gipsies who went to Hamburg with the intention of taking passage for America, were prevented from landing and have returned to Hull. The authorities at Hull have forbidden them to enter the town.

PARNELL'S NEW BILL.

It Suspends Evictions on Payment of Half Rent.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Parnell land bill, as redrafted, suspends evictions on payment into court of half the rent due. Many Gladstonians disapprove of the amount of the reduction.

The Parnellites assert that the full value will justify a demand of over 50 per cent. reduction. Mr. Parnell, in a conference with Mr. John Morley, urges a reduction of 75 per cent., but on Mr. Morley's advice he limited the reduction to 50 per cent. Leaseholders are included in the bill.

The government response will be that Mr. Parnell's data are inaccurate; that the Dublin executive returns for market values for 1885-86 show that the reduction in prices in Ireland is less than in England and Scotland, ranging from 10 to 15 per cent.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach and Lord Randolph Churchill will deny that the bulk of the Irish tenants will be unable to pay their rents in November, or that a host of evictions are probable.

The second reading of the Parnell bill will take place on Friday.

Mr. Gladstone has privately announced that he will return to London on Saturday and that he hopes to take part in the debate on Monday. It is understood that he will support the Parnell bill. His promised presence is already rallying the Gladstonians.

The unionists' whips have sent an appeal to unionist members in the country to return to London and vote against the bill. The government also insists upon the recall of absentees.

Conservatives attempt to curtail the debate to one night will be in vain. The debate will probably extend over four nights.

MORE than twelve months ago a woman in LaGrange, Ga., while feeding a large flock of chickens, dropped a diamond ring from her finger, and, not being able to find it, concluded that one of the fowls had swallowed it. It was not thought best to kill all the fowls in order to find it, but the internal arrangements of each fowl afterward killed were carefully examined. A week ago the ring was found. It was under the dirt just where it had been lost.

A RUSSIAN newspaper, one of whose reporters recently called upon Tolstoi, writes that the great novelist now lives in a common country house, consisting of one immense room, and filled with all sorts of necessary articles, including libraries of useful books and manual tools. His children work in turn at the bench or at the desk. When the one quits his manual labor the other leaves his intellectual task, and takes the other's place. Tolstoi's literary works are now read all over the world.

A FRIEND of Henry Villard says: "Mr. Villard has always regarded New York as his home. He will come back from Germany in the early fall with his family and will occupy the northern half of the big palace at the corner of Madison avenue and Fiftieth street, which is owned by Mr. Villard. He and his wife are probably worth about $500,000 between them. He has no railroad connections that I know of, except a small, obscure road away out west, of which he is President."

THE RICHMOND CAPITOL.

WASHINGTON STATUE—THE ORIGIN OF THE CONFEDERATE SEAL

Told by Its Inventor—Gossip About John Randolph of Roanoke and His Drunken Eccentricities—His Granite Tomb in Hollywood Cemetery, Etc., Etc.

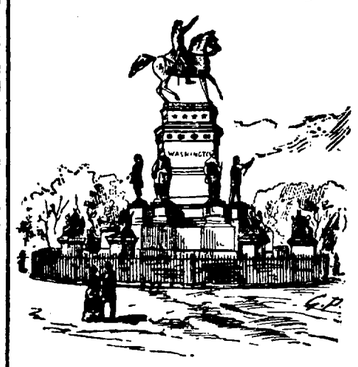

[Special Correspondence.]

RICHMOND, August.—The Capitol at Richmond is one of the oldest buildings in this country. It stands in the center of the city and is surrounded by a rolling park filled with fine old trees in which the gray squirrels chirp and the birds sing. These squirrels run about over the walks by hundreds. They crawl into the baskets of people who set them down for a moment while they chat with their neighbors; and I saw a lady feeding one as I walked about the grounds. She stooped down and held a bit of cracker in her hand which the squirrel nibbled as though it had been accustomed to the society of ladies all its life. The Capitol building was laid after a model selected by Thomas Jefferson, and it looks somewhat like the old Roman temple at Nismes, France, known as the Maison Carrée. Its corner stone was laid nine years after the Declaration of Independence was signed, and it now contains some of the oldest records in this country.

THE CAPITOL AT RICHMOND.

In its halls Jefferson, Madison and Monroe have spoken, and nearly every noted Virginian has sat in them as a member of the state legislature. During the war it was the capitol building of the Confederate states. The Confederate congress sat in it and every atom of its old masonry is filled with history. Walking up its front steps you enter a sort of a rotunda, in the center of which there is a statue of Washington by Houdon, and this statue is said to be the best ever made of him. Lafayette called it the fac-simile of Washington's person, and it is the most lifelike marble representation I have ever seen. It is just life size and Houdon prepared his sketch for it at Mount Vernon. He took a cast of Washington's face, plastering the head of the Father of our Country over with paste and then removing this carefully enough to get a mold. He also took a cast of the upper part of Washington's body and minutely measured his person and then went to Paris to make the statue. He took these casts at Mount Vernon in 1785, before Washington became president, and the statue was erected three years before he died. It was paid for by the legislature of Virginia. The forehead of this Washington is not so high as those of Stuart's pictures. It is receding rather than full, and the whole man does not seem to be the giant represented by other painters.

HOUDON'S STATUE OF WASHINGTON.

In this rotunda of the Richmond capitol there is an old stove made of iron which is said to be one of the oldest stoves in existence. It was made a present to the colony of Virginia in 1770 and was spoken of at that time as a warming machine. It is seven feet high and has as much ornamentation as a Queen Anne house. What is now the Virginia senate chamber was occupied during the war as the Confederate house of representatives. The Confederate senate was on the second floor, but its hall has now been cut up in rooms for the government. On the floor below this is the hall of the house of delegates, where Aaron Burr was tried before Chief Justice Marshall for treason and where the state secession convention met in 1861. Pictures of Chatham and Jefferson hang upon the walls and the delegates sit with a little old fashioned school-like desk in front of them. On the opposite side of the rotunda on the second floor is the state library which has 35,000 volumes and the walls of which are hung with curiosities. Here is Stonewall Jackson's last dispatch to Lee, written just before he died. It is on a half sheet of common letter paper, the edges of which are ragged where it was evidently torn off in a hurry. It is written with a pencil, and the handwriting is as small as that of a woman. In it Jackson announces his trust in Providence in speaking of his situation and signs it: "Respectfully, T. J. Jackson."

Judge A. R. Boteler, the pardon clerk of the attorney general's office, is one of the fine old gentlemen about Washington who have made a great deal of history. He was a representative from Virginia in the United States congress at the opening of the war, and during the rebellion he was a member of the Confederate congress. He is a man of fine education and great literary attainments. He was chairman of the house committee of the Confederate congress which designed the Confederate flag, and he himself was the designer of the seal of the Confederate States of America. This seal consisted of a picture of Washington on horseback, surrounded by a wreath made up of the agricultural products of the south.

CONFEDERATE SEAL.

I asked him how he came to select this design. He replied: "At the time the Confederate seal was discussed there were many ideas proposed for it, and some of these were very ridiculous ones. Some of the more ignorant of the Confederate congress were opposed to having any Latin words upon the seal, and I remember one delegate who denounced the Latin as a dead language. Judah P. Benjamin had, at this time, proposed that a new plan be adopted in the naming of the money coinage of the south, and that the unit or dollar be called by the name of 'Cavalier' instead of dollar. This took very well, and there was great talk for some time of the cavaliers, half cavaliers and quarter cavaliers, which were to represent the money of the south. It was during this discussion that one night I was walking in company with Mr. Preston past the statue of Washington in the capitol grounds at Richmond. We were talking of the seal and coinage, and when Preston made some remark about the statue it struck me at once that Washington was the ideal cavalier of America, and that his figure would make an appropriate design for the Confederate seal. I had an artist of Richmond draw a design from it, and this design was sent off to London to James M. Mason, who was the Confederate minister there. He had the seal made by Wyatt, the man who has for years made the great seals of England, and it was sent back to the Confederate government."

Judge Boteler tells me that the scrap book of designs which I spoke of about a year ago as existing in the war department, containing ideas for a Confederate flag, comprises only a small amount of the large number which were received. Said he: "We received very many designs at Montgomery, and when it was found that the first flag was not distinguishable from the Union flag in battle, and a second one was proposed, designs came in by the hundreds daily, and we had altogether as many as would have filled a packing box big enough to hold a piano top. A great many of these designs came from England. Many of them were by ladies, and some were made of satin and silk of various colors. Some were very ridiculous, and out of all symmetry or propriety. Many had the idea of the rattlesnake with the words, 'Don't tread on me, it is certain death,' and others were made up of the moon, stars and all the signs of the zodiac put up in different shape and forms."

John Randolph, of Roanoke, now reposes in the Hollywood cemetery at Richmond. I visited his tomb the other day. It is in the new part of the cemetery, far away from those of Presidents Monroe and Tyler. It consists of an immense slab of granite, five feet wide and seven feet long. This slab is about a foot thick, and it rests upon a base flat upon the ground. A smooth granite wall round at the top and about eight inches high surrounds the lot in which the monument lies, and on the slab is the inscription:

JOHN RANDOLPH, OF ROANOKE,
Born June 2, 1773,
Died March 24, 1833.

His remains were removed from Charlotte county, West Virginia, to this spot Dec. 13, 1879.

And this is all that is left of John Randolph. Descended from Powhattan through his several times great grandmother Pocahontas, he stalked in upon the stage of American history proud of his Indian descent. His life was made up of eccentricities, and the story of it reads like a romance. His father left him wealthy, and he had everything to make life pleasant. He was endowed with great natural ability, and he had opportunities for the best of educations. He went to half a dozen noted colleges, including Princeton, but he said he learned but little of any of his instructors. He studied law with Edmund Randolph, who was Washington's attorney general, and he was a member of congress when he was 25. John Randolph was a curious looking fellow. He had high cheek bones, like his Indian ancestors, and like them he had no beard. He parted his hair in the middle and looked more like a boy than a man. When he was sworn in as a member of the house he looked so young that the authorities asked him whether he was old enough to be a congressman. He replied with dignity: "I refer you to my constituents." He was never in very good health, and during the last half of his life his customary response in answer to questions about his health was that he was "dying, dying, dying."

JOHN RANDOLPH IN ENGLAND.
(From an old cut.)

John Randolph is said to have been very tall and thin, with a short body and long legs and arms. His long, bony fingers have gone into history from the way he used to point them at his enemies in congress. His forefinger and his foot were the parts of his body which he used most in gesticulation, and it is said that his finger seemed to have no bone in it when he thus used it. After it had accomplished what it had been called into action for it would fall over on the back of his hand as limp as a string. Randolph's eye was very bright and piercing, and I find that nearly all of the men who have written about him speak of its wonderful brilliancy. He had delicate feet and he often patted these on the floor while he was speaking. He drew up his feet when walking, and did not throw them forward boldly. He walked like an Indian and he dressed like an English dude. He was fastidious about his clothes, and he wore the most fantastically fashionable apparel. He had a remarkably shrill voice, but it was soft and flute like and of great carrying power. No matter how sick Randolph was he could make all about him hear and his voice went to the most remote corners of the large audiences which he addressed. He was a good singer and was fond of music. He drank a great deal at times and there are some authorities who believe that his insanity and eccentricity were largely the result of drinking.

He was never married, but in his letters, which I have read very carefully, he often refers to his love, and it is said that his sweetheart married Peyton Randolph, the son of Edmund Randolph who was secretary of state under Washington. This girl's name was Maria Ward and it is said that Randolph was engaged to her for some years when the engagement was broken off. Randolph left the presence of his sweetheart very angrily, and that so much so that he would not stop to untie the halter strap which fastened his horse to the fence. He whipped out his knife and cut it off and then galloped away. This Maria Ward is described as having been the greatest belle of Virginia at that time, and Gen. Lafayette was so charmed with her when he came to this country that he wanted to adopt her as his daughter and take her to France. She died, however, before he left this country. Randolph never paid attention to another woman. He calls Miss Ward "his angel" in his letters, and in one of them he strangely says: "I love, aye, and was loved again, not wisely but too well."

Randolph was a very good business man. He had a great number of slaves and he treated them very well, save when he got angry. In his will he freed them, and he was very particular in making the will strong enough to accomplish this end. He was a great lover of horses and kept the best. He had some of the best race horses in the country during his days, and I doubt not he was accustomed to bet upon the races. In his duel with Clay he acted in a very high toned manner. He did not shoot at Mr. Clay but fired his pistol into the air. He made up with Clay before he died, and at one time when he thought he was dying he had himself carried into the senate that he might hear Clay speak.

Randolph had little care for other men's feelings. He delighted in saying mean things and seldom thought twice in making a remark as to how deep it might cut. He was a supercilious fellow, and even on his deathbed he criticised the language of his doctor. His doctor asked: "Mr. Randolph, do you lay easy?"

Randolph replied with an emphasis on the italicized words: "I lie as easily as a dying man can."

JOHN RANDOLPH'S GRAVE.

John Randolph was an infidel during the greater part of his life. During another part of it he was an enthusiastic Christian. Part of the time he was apparently insane, and for a long time he was an opium eater. His whole life was made up of queer acts and strange eccentricities. He will always remain a riddle to the historians.

In Matters Concerning the Health

How careful a person should be,
Its far more important than wealth;
To this I'm sure you'll agree:
When tossed and afflicted with pain,
Pond's Extract you'd wish to apply,
From base imitations refrain
And only the genuine buy.
Lei not 'price' on your judgment obtrude,
For nothing is cheap that's not good.

It is a notorious fact that not one-half of the convicts buried in the prison cemetery are lying there to-day. The majority of the remains have found their way to dissecting tables almost before the bodies have been in the ground long enough to become cold. In early times there was no trouble in lifting the stiffs, but now if the practice is carried on it has to be kept very quiet.

Above all earthly ills,
I hate the big, old fashioned pills;
By slow degrees they downward wend,
And often pause, or upward tend;
With such discomfort are they fraught,
Their good effects amount to naught.
Now, Dr. Pierce prepares a pill—
That just exactly fills the bill—
A Pellet, rather, that is all—
A pleasant Purgative and small;
Just try them as you feel their need
You'll find I speak the truth indeed.

CANADIAN FIREMEN.

The Clumsy Fire Machines of Our British Neighbor.

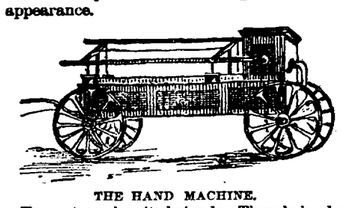

[Special Correspondence.]

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14.

engines, both steam and hand-power, have always afforded a vast amount of study to man. Even the street Arab, with his blacking box and cigar stump, can tell you all about the "machine," the men that run it and the origin and full particulars of all the fires that occur on his habitual route.

In the matter of fire apparatus Canada finds herself far behind the age. With the exception of a very few cities in the western provinces, you can only find the old "hand machines," similar to those used in New York before the powerful steam engine made its appearance.

THE HAND MACHINE.

Every town has its brigade. These brigades are composed of men filling every position in life. The old and the young, the professional and the laborer, run side by side. For a very trifling fee a citizen may be enrolled in the brigade, and thereby become exempt from jury duty. It is on this account more than anything else that you find half the town enrolled, and the other half ready to volunteer at a moment's notice.

GOING TO THE FIRE.

With the first cry of "fire" the fun and excitement begins. Fun, because all routine business is laid aside in a moment, and a wild chase for the engine house instituted. Excitement, because men, women and children run here, there and everywhere. Shouting, yelling, blackguarding and mud rolling is the order. The first person reaching the engine-house gives the general alarm by ringing the bell. The machine is run out, every one present grabs the rope, and off they go at a break-neck pace.

Every active member is provided with a uniform consisting of a helmet and white blouse. These he keeps at home; but he is supposed to wear them at a fire in order to be distinguished from a volunteer. As the machine is run down the street, the wives and daughters of the "actives" appear at the doorways with the uniforms. The gymnastic feats performed by these men, while running through the streets, discarding their coats and hats for their uniforms, beggars description.

At the fire, every one is at perfect liberty to do as he pleases. A rush for the house is the first grand move. Every available article is carried off. Sometimes the unlucky owner has to skirmish all over the town before he has collected all his furniture. When a saloon is burned the property (in the form of liquids) very frequently finds its way to very distant localities. On one occasion two "actives" rescued a keg of Scotch whisky, carried it to a house three miles distant and never left it for four days. On "brigade picnic days," the entire force, both active and volunteer, go out for sport, and leave the town to the mercy of Providence.

They are Not Sorry.

There is one thing nobody ever regrets—that is, the day they first adopted Parker's Tonic as their regular family medicine. For several years I have suffered greatly from periodical returns of hay fever. At the suggestion of Covert & Cheever, druggists, I obtained Ely's Cream Balm and used a portion of it during a severe attack. Mr. John Harries, one of our most respected German citizens and business men, died at his residence, on West Jefferson street, at 11 o'clock last night. He was fifty-six years old and came to this city about forty years ago. For many years he has been engaged in the hardware business. A Pennsylvania official says the heavy west bound freight traffic is simply due to a revival of business all along the line. Many merchants postponed making their heavy purchases until the last moment, fearing a recurrence of labor troubles, and now they have all come in together, and it keeps the officials busy to provide sufficient cars to carry the tonnage. The equipment of the road will have to be increased if the rush continues. The Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad expect to have their new Muskegon branch completed by the 1st of December. The ties and rails are being laid very rapidly on the graded portion, while a large force of men are working at other points.

Dr. J. W. Younge continues to improve and is in good spirits. The statement that the extent of his injury has been exaggerated is simply ridiculous. The doctor was almost mortally wounded and is still a sick man. His surgeons are honorable professional men and would have no object to lie about their patient.

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church of Bluffton, have united with their pastor, Rev. George G. Mitchell, in a request to the Fort Wayne Presbytery, to dissolve the relation between them. Mr. M. stands high at Bluffton and his resignation is regretted. He has been called by the Fifth Presbyterian church of Indianapolis.

Elijah Hogue and Zach Richards, of Wells county, who were arrested by Sheriff Kirkwood and brought to the Fort Wayne jail, upon the charge of passing counterfeit money, were given a hearing to-day and Commissioner Jim. Harper at once discharged the men. More arrests are looked for as considerable counterfeit money has lately gone into circulation.

Mike Kaylor, the brick yard man, filled up on oratorical liquor last night and his triumphant march from Main street to the south depot were a series of robust campaign speeches. Mike is so constituted he can talk a wheel off a freight car, and to prevent any such calamity, Officer Rohle locked him up. He paid a fine at the mayor's court, or some one paid it for him and it is hoped this will choke the fellow's ardor off for a while.

Emma Abbott's Great Love Opera.

In Paul and Virginia on Thursday night, Emma Abbott will appear in one of her strongest roles, that of Virginia The following notice from the Washington Post, show how popular the opera is in the capital:

"Miss Abbott's voice and her girlish appearance are suited to the part of Virginia, and she gives the character that peculiar mixture of maidenly innocence or intense passion which are absolutely necessary to entirely fill the breadth of expression. Michelena takes the part of Paul to perfection; the brotherly love and tenderness, the despair intermingled with a natural jealousy at parting, and the broadening of his affection into passionate love, with the attendent emotion are all faithfully portrayed, in both voice and action. The audience went wild over the beautiful love duet between Paul and Virginia, and recalled the singers five times. The exquisite bird song was given by Miss Abbott with all the range of a wonderful voice

HEWITT HELD,

And Reid is Acquitted of Arson by the Grand Jury—A Compliment to Splendid Officers.

The grand jury reported two more indictments this afternoon. One was against Frank Lavanway for petit larceny and one against Wm. Hewitt for arson, Kyle & Reid's hat store.

Henry O'Brien, confined in jail on a charge of larceny was ordered released.

Fred C. Reid, under bail on a charge of arson, was discharged from his recognizance, no indictments being returned against him. The grand jury was discharged until further orders after reporting everything in the most excellent order at the jail, save that the furnace needs repairing. They highly compliment Sheriff Nelson's diligence and care as well as the cleanliness and discipline of the prison.

The grand jurors say that the county asylum is managed to perfection by Supt. John Wilkinson, whom they speak of in high praise. They again make a strong demand on the county commissioners to reconstruct the insane wards so that the doors will open outward and the unfortunate people will not be burned in the event of a fire.

Mr. Bent Wilson, of the Indianapolis Sentinel, is in the city working up the circulation of his paper.

W. D. Maier announced himself to-day as a candidate for county clerk.

Work has begun on the Wabash water system.

Academy of Music.

The Academy of Music opened last night under the management of Messrs. Robinson & Lemond, of Detroit, presenting A. O. Miller's dramatic company in "The Three Widows." The plot is an old one, but the play is in excellent hands. Mr. Miller is no stranger to Fort Wayne theatre goers, and Mrs. Miller is also quite popular. They are supported by a first-class company, who move the action of the play along with briskness that is pleasing and refreshing. The audience, which was not very large made up for its lack of numbers, in thusiasm, and evidently was highpleased, judging from the almost continual roar of laughter with which the Academy rung. As the managemeu states: "The play is intended to ake you laugh, and show the troubles of young man who, in spite of himself, becomes engaged to three young an charming widows. It is full of musica hits, laughable absurdities and situation and is sure to please." It will be repeated each night during the week at the matinees to-day, Thursday and Saturday. The new proprietors are bound to bring attractions here that will please, and will present them at popular prices. THE SENTINEL heartily recommends the performance given this week as clean, healthy and funny. No one should fail to see it.

Maumee Township Politics.

To the Editor of the SENTINEL:

Since the smoke of battle has cleared away, we will try to give your readers the political situation in Maumee.

It appears that Shirley, the old stand by, has created the enmity of a few who style themselves democrats, and early in May formed what they called the "O Andrew Jackson Hickory Club. Said club was ostensibly for the purpose disposing Shirley from political influence and to control delegates and dictate who the township officers should be.

It was quite evident that the club would win, as it had held weekly meetings and received aid from aspiring candidates, who did not really understand the intention of the club.

Everybody was worked up to fever heat. No presidential campaign ever stirred up our people more. They had confidence in Shirley's friends; while on the other hand the club was sure of everything.

But fortune once more smiled on the side of true democracy, and the club was defeated on all sides by a decided majority.

It is well known that Maumee is a republican township, but in spite of this, by the management of Mr. Shirley and his friends, we have elected democrats to office for the last twelve years, and you can rest assured that we will be found at our post of duty in November, working for and voting the straight democratic ticket.

We are well pleased with our county ticket, and would have given a hearty support if other aspirants had been nominated instead. We all read THE SENTINEL and recognize it as the true exponent of democracy of old Allen.

Yours for success. A DEMOCRAT.

HORROR!

On the Nickel Plate Railroad.

Twelve Passengers Killed and Fourteen Wounded in a Dreadful Collision.

The Dead and Wounded Named and Their Injuries Described in Full.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Twelve People Killed on the Nickel Plate Railroad.

SILVER CREEK, N. Y., Sept. 14.—An accident occurred this morning on the Nickel Plate railroad, near this place. A west-bound express train ran into an excursion train from Erie, Pa. Twelve persons are reported killed and fourteen wounded.

THE PARTICULARS.

BUFFALO, Sept. 14.—A dispatch from Silver Creek, N. Y., to the Commercial-Advertiser says: A Niagara Falls excursion train on the Nickel Plate road, under the management of J. W. Butler, the excursion agent, collided with a local freight train in a cut on the curve just east of here this morning.

Both the engineers and firemen saved themselves by jumping. The excursion train consisted of a baggage car, smoker and eleven coaches. Only those in the smoking car were hurt, it being completely telescoped by the baggage car.

The killed are:

W. W. Loomis, Erie.
John Myers, Erie.
Henry Gebhart and son.
John F. Gebhart, Pittsburg.
S. Cameron, mayor of Waterford, Pa.
John Suder, Pittsburg.
David Sharp, Erie.
W. W. Rostaller, Erie.
Mr. Lyphir, Erie.
William Reynolds, Dunkirk, N. Y.
Aaron Parkhurst, Maysville.

Two bodies have not been identified. One is thought to be a son of Mr. Loomis.

The wounded are:

Henry Huyck, Steaitina, both legs crushed very seriously.

Samuel Tracey, Erie, head and shoulders injured.

Wm. Zimmerley, Erie, badly hurt.

Louis Lluse, Erie, badly hurt.

Martin Rostatter, Erie, shoulder and leg injured; not seriously.

Archie Campbell, Erie, seriously injured.

Edwin W. Marble, Erie, legs broken; seriously.

Charles Schendler, Erie, head and shoulders injured; seriously.

Charles Diller, Erie, right leg broken and head cut.

J. P. Herrington, Erie, badly injured.

Joseph Tapper, Summit, Pa., badly bruised.

Philo Liute, residence unknown, legs crushed.

Mr. Coburn, Titusville, injures slight.

The accident seems to have been caused by a misunderstanding of telegraphic orders.

A Slugging Match.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The six round glove contest between Paddy Ryan and Frank Glover, the champion heavyweight of Illinois, took place at Cheltenham Beach last night.

It resulted in a regular slugging match and was stopped by the town of Lake police at the end of the second round. One of the referees decided that Ryan had the best of the fight and the other declared it a draw.

The fight took place on a boat, upon which a twenty-four foot ring was made in the rain. From the start to the finish the fight was a vicious one on the part of both men, it being necessary for the referees to rush between them with umbrellas and clubs and haul them apart. The fight was stopped at 10:50 a. m., and the drenched and disgusted spectators made a rush for the train.

THE FIRST DAY.

The Great Inter-State Fair Opens With the Brightest Prospects.

This was another day of hurry and bustle at the Inter-State fair grounds, and although most of the time was spent in arranging exhibits there was quite a crowd of spectators, especially to witness the track exercise in the morning. All the flyers were out and lively brushes between the jockeys were enjoyed.

Gust Glidden, Frank VanAlstine, John Draker and a number of strangers had their horses on the track and whirled the last quarter in great shape, while Ed. Orff, Will McKinnie, Jack Read, Will Fleming, A. C. Perrin and Councilman Read watched the movements and timed the blooded racers. The colt race is much talked of, but there is blood on the moon for the pacing race. In this are entered Will McKinnie's "Billy F," and O. A. Simon's "Daisy Scott." These are old turf rivals and will show all the speed they have. Van Alstine had Judge Hoadly out this morning and he turned the home stretch in a 2:29 gait like clock work. There is altogether the finest field of horses ever called together in Indiana, no fair or race excepted, and every horseman will back the assertion.

The capacious fair grounds are neat as a pin and everything looks fresh.

Mr. J. H. Bass' fine herd of blooded cattle were driven in to-day and beside this there was a steady stream of draught horses, fine sheep, plump porkers, and about everything that goes to make up a fair.

George Gordon is the busiest man on the grounds, barring our beloved friend, Wright Rockhill. Mr. Gordon has jurisdiction of the poultry and pet stock show. In the latter department Editor D. W. Page, makes a most interesting exhibit and admirers of oddities and beauties in the animal and feathered world, can make all necessary arrangements to go into ecstacies.

The art and fancy work department as well as the display of soil products is a study, and indeed if this fair does not please a varied fancy there is little use to attempt it this side of Paradise where the lion and lamb are reputed to have gamboled on the green.

There is a system about everything on the grounds, and pleasant but stern people have hold of the reins.

In the main exhibition hall, D. N. Foster occupies the center with a handsome display of furniture, carpets and tapestry. Dawson & Karns will also exhibit a couple of their pianos with Mr. Foster's display. D. H. Baldwin & Co. have reserved a large and excellent place for the exhibition of pianos and organs, fronting on the entrance of the Annex hall. On the north side Mr. Christian Wiese, of Adams township, and Jacob Temple, of Wayne township have the finest display of apples ever seen at a fair in this county. Pfeiffer & Schlatter, the hardware men, have the space facing the main entrance, while on one side of the entrance will be found a collection of fine shells by M. A. Kelly, of Jacksonville, Fla., and on the other Prof. S. P. Mudrax, said to be the finest card writer in the world.

Upstairs to the loft will be found the exhibit of the Raymm Manufacturing company, of Corry, Pa. Their specialty is baby jumpers. They have an exhibition an exact fac simile of the baby jumper sent President Cleveland by the Young Men's Democratic club of Corry on his wedding day. The president gracefully acknowledged the present. Parents should not fail to see this novel as well as useful bit of nursery furniture, and, by the way, the company is in want of agents, state and county. The jumpers are cheap, and meet with a very ready sale, and any live, energetic man can make a mint of money by pushing the article.

The balance of the upper department principally devoted to the exhibition of fancy goods, such as needle work, etc. In the center, however, The Peters Box & Lumber Co., will make a handsome display of furniture, something that will surpass anything ever seen here. The Bickford manufacturing company will also exhibit a line of folding beds. In the Annex Staub Bros. and T. R. Pickard show a full line of stoves, ranges, etc., and other exhibits will come in to-day. The basement is devoted to vegetables and poultry. Talking about poultry—there will be more poultry on exhibition here than at any fair heretofore held in the state. One fancier from Elyria, O., has seven pages of entries, including in his layout almost every known breed of chickens.

The stock department will also be better filled than at any time before. C. W. Baker, of Mansfield, O., has fourteen pens of Chester white hogs. They are monsters in size, the largest weighing over 700 pounds. The Hereford and Jersey Cattle company, of South Bend, has a whole row of stalls filled with fine cattle. Several car loads of sheep came in last night and before noon every stall on the ground was filled. The horse department will be exceptionally fine. Messrs. Fisher & Gilson, of Goderich, Ontario, have nine stalls of Dominion draft horses. They are mastodons in size. One of them, a four-year-old, weighs 1,700 pounds. Another a yearling colt, coming two years in February, took first prize at the Chicago fair, from which place they were shipped here. The entire speed department is filled, and nearly all the racers are on the grounds. All that is necessary now to insure the complete success of the fair is good weather. The management has spared no effort no expense to satisfy everybody, and the people should now show their appreciation of their efforts by bestowing upon the fair a liberal patronage.

NOTES.

Everybody is going.

The track is in great shape.

The hill is dotted with tents.

The pacing race occurs Thursday.

This is the biggest fair on record.

The city band will be on hand tomorrow.

The balloon race in the sky will be a great card Thursday.

There was a race for twenty dollars on the track this morning.

Will McKinnie's "Billy F." paced a mile in 2:24½ this morning.

Louis Brames has the pop, lemonade and seltzer privileges under the grand stand.

There is a general disposition to suspend all business Thursday and make it a fair holiday.

The Washington street gate is alone used for the entry of vehicles which are permitted to go out only at the Jefferson street gate. This avoids conflicts and collisions.

In the poultry show Geo. P. Gordon has 72 entries, McDavis 60, S. E. Worst 160, D. F. Heiley 40, E. J. Koppenhafer 60, H. R. Engel 20, Daniel Christian 20, and there are small exhibitors who have 200 birds for show, making a total of 1,264 birds.

Judge Hench decided this case to-day: Wm. McIntyre vs. Lewis H. Oliver and Sarah Oliver on foreclosure. Judgment on finding for plaintiff for $148.77.

Shot by a Scoundrel.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 14.—The Courier Journal has private advices from Manchester, Clay county, in the mountain district of Kentucky, that on Sunday evening Ex-Judge B. P. White was shot twice from ambush by an unknown person and instantly killed. White served several terms as county judge and at the last August election had been elected superintendent of the common schools. He was a cousin of Hon. John D. White, the former noted Kentucky congressman who so frequently enlivened the proceedings of the house, but unlike his cousin, was a democrat, the only one in the family. No clue has been obtained as to the perpetrator of the murder.

The New Public Printer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Thomas E. Benedict, of New York, has filed with the secretary of the interior his official bond in the sum of $100,000 as public printer, which was approved. Upon the state department being notified of this fact, his commission was issued. Mr. Benedict takes charge of the office to-day.

The president to-day appointed Simeon H. Calhoun collector of internal revenue for the district of Nebraska.

Another Shock.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 14.—The news from Summerville last night was not so favorable. A shock occurred there at 9:30 yesterday morning, which was sufficient to shake the buildings considerably, and one occurred at 1 o'clock which overthrew small brick buildings connected with a saw mill. No one was injured. There are now comparatively few persons remaining in Summerville.

An Assassin Confesses.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 14.—Dispatches from Covington, Tipton county, Tenn., states that Sheriff Carter, of that county has in jail there, a man who is supposed to be the assassin of the late ex-Mayor Bowman, of East St. Louis. During his imprisonment the man made a confession of the murder of the mayor and said he was paid for it by a vice president of a railroad company.

MAINE!

Is Again Slightly Magnetized.

The Republicans Win a Victory, but Losses are Recorded Against Them in Most Instances.

The Opening Campaign at Columbia City.—A Boy Seriously Hurt.

MAINE.

The Election Not a Great Republican Victory.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—Returns from all but three towns in Cumberland county show that the entire republican tickets are elected. The returns so far received show that the state senate will compose twenty-six republicans and five democrats. The last senate was entirely republican. The house of representatives in 1885 composed 115 republicans, 34 democrats and 2 greenbackers. The republicans have gained twelve and lost two and four more in doubt. If the doubtful ones are all democratic, the republicans will have a gain of six over last year.

Seventy towns give: Bodwell, 19,414; Edwards, 15,625, and Clark, 1,038, against Robie in 1885, 21,951; Bellman, 16,261; prohibition, 208; greenbackers, 200, and scattering, 3. Republican plurality, 3,791, against 5,600, a republican loss of 1,809.

The total vote of the state will be above 137,000, which is extraordinarily large for an off year. Out of this aggregate the third party vote will not exceed 3,500, far less than was expected by the enders of the movement.

AUGUSTA, Sept. 14.—Chairman Manley said this afternoon Bodwell's majority over Edwards will reach fully 14,000. The legislature will be nearly as strongly republican as two years ago.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The New York Sun in commenting on the Maine elections, says: "The republicans carried Maine yesterday, as was expected, but the returns show decided republican losses, due, in the main, to the prohibitionists, and the inconsistency of General Dow's present, with his former position, with regard to the enforcement of prohibition in Maine. The vigorous speeches of Mr. Blaine undoubtedly kept down the vote of the prohibitionists, yet it is surprisingly large for a separate prohibition party in a state that has enjoyed the blessings of prohibition for a generation. General Dingley, for congress, ran far ahead of his ticket. Tom Reed pulled through as usual. Mr. Reed has good luck as well as brains. The Maine election has a lesson of alarm and warning for the republicans in other states. If, in spite of Mr. Blaine's brilliant and vigorous leadership, the prohibitionists are so determined and numerous in prohibition Maine, may they not work serious and perhaps fatal damage to the republican party in New York and even in Pennsylvania?

THE CAMPAIGN.

Governor Gray and Judge Lowry in the North.

Special to the Indianapolis Sentinel.

COLUMBIA CITY, Ind., Sept. 13.—Governor Gray opened the campaign in northeastern Indiana at this place on Saturday last. The meeting, although no special effort had been made, was a splendid outpouring of the democracy of Whitley, many being present from surrounding counties. A noticeable feature of this, the first meeting in the county, was the large number of republicans in attendance. Governor Gray's speech was a masterly effort, enthusing, by its plain and convincing statement of facts, the democrats present, as well as carrying conviction to the hearts of many republicans who came to hear. Void of abuse, truthful in its statements, it was just such an address that republican orators cannot refute.

In the evening the governor also spoke to a very large meeting at Churubusco, many voters attending from Allen and Noble counties. A large cavalry escort, headed by a fine band, met the governor's carriage a mile from town, and escorted him to the hotel. In the evening the town was brilliantly illuminated.

Hon. R. Lowry, the next congressman from this district, closed both meetings with short addresses, giving an account of his stewardship in the session of congress just closed, and dealing the republican indicted, boodle candidate many telling shots.

Governor Gray has always been a favorite in this section of the state. His coming here has done much good. Set down the Twelfth for a very large democratic majority, state and congressional.

FOR CONGRESS.

A Stubborn Contest Promised at Lafayette.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 14.—The republican convention of the ninth congressional district met here this morning. There are eleven candidates for nomination and a protracted contest is looked for. The ninth district comprises Benton, Warren, Tipton, Hamilton, Clinton, Howard, Boon and Tippecanoe counties, and of these each has a candidate for the nomination on the congressional ticket except Tipton. Howard presents Major J. F. Elliott; Boone, Dr. Scull; Hamilton, Joseph R. Gray; Clinton, Joseph B. Cheadle, editor of the Frankfort Banner. Warren county presents two candidates. Benton names U. Z. Wiley, and Tippecanoe will be divided on first ballot between B. Wilson Smith, Col. Tullis and B. W. Langdon.

PITTSBURG.

Foreign Labor Threatened—A New Political Machine.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 14.—Pittsburg is threatened with an influx of foreign workmen. The depression felt in various parts of Great Britain, and especially in the iron and steel producing districts, is having the effect of driving this skilled labor into American fields. Vigorous opposition to the movement is expected from the labor organizations of this country.

A secret organization for the sole purpose of purifying politics in Pittsburg and Allegheny City has been formed here. The organization already includes over seven hundred of the staunchest and most influential business and professional men of the two cities, and it is the intention not to take an active part in any political fight until the membership has reached 10,000.

ACCIDENT.

A Seventeen-Year-Old Boy Seriously Injured by Being Run Over by a Street Car.

LAFAYETTE, Sept. 14.—At about noon yesterday, Will Mosier, a seventeen-year old son of John Mosier, merchant tailor was injured, probably fatally, by being run over by a street car. Young Mosier had a bundle under his arm, and attempted to jump on the car while it was in motion. His foot slipped on the platform and he swung under the car, a wheel striking him in the center of the forehead and running completely over his head, cutting it open. It is also feared his spinal column is broken. He has suffered terribly, having been conscious during the whole of the time since the accident.

Elopement and Marriage.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Sept. 14.—Miss Ella Wilson, daughter of Greenville Wilson, a prominent farmer and fast-horse trainer of this county, who was attending the fair here, left for her home in Waldron on Friday evening, and on Saturday morning sent word to her sister, who was here, that she was sick and would not come up that day. In the afternoon she passed through here on the train in company with S. Gentry Hacker, of Rushville, for Indianapolis, where they were married in spite of the opposition of her father.

A Good Petition.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The Women's National Temperance union has drawn up a petition to congress urging that in view of the alarming increase of assaults upon women and young girls, the legal age of consent be raised, as is proposed in the bill now before the senate, to eighteen years.

Fire Record.

ELGIN, Ills., Sept. 14.—The Fuller's opera house block burned this morning. George M. Peck, dry goods and groceries, sustained a loss of $45,000; insurance $35,000. Allen Bros., hats and caps, loss $5,000; insurance not given. The loss on the building is $40,000; insurance $30,000.

The Democrats.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 14.—The democratic state convention met to-day and nominated a state ticket.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The London Press Comments on the Parnell Bill.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Standard says: "Parnell's bill is a most disappointing document. It would have been more candid to label it "A measure for arbitration of eviction and the reduction of rents by one half." If it became a law it would put every land owner in Ireland at the mercy of local leagues. It is difficult to believe that Parnell framed the project in a serious spirit." The Telegraph says: "The most ultra Parnellite follower of Gladstone has no excuse for doubting that the so called temporary relief bill is an ad captandum project of the most unblushing kind."

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Greek Gipsies who went to Hamburg with the intention of taking passage for America, were prevented from landing and have returned to Hull. The authorities at Hull have forbidden them to enter the town.

PARNELL'S NEW BILL.

It Suspends Evictions on Payment of Half Rent.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Parnell land bill, as redrafted, suspends evictions on payment into court of half the rent due. Many Gladstonians disapprove of the amount of the reduction.

The Parnellites assert that the full value will justify a demand of over 50 per cent. reduction. Mr. Parnell, in a conference with Mr. John Morley, urges a reduction of 75 per cent., but on Mr. Morley's advice he limited the reduction to 50 per cent. Leaseholders are included in the bill.

The government response will be that Mr. Parnell's data are inaccurate; that the Dublin executive returns for market values for 1885-86 show that the reduction in prices in Ireland is less than in England and Scotland, ranging from 10 to 15 per cent.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach and Lord Randolph Churchill will deny that the bulk of the Irish tenants will be unable to pay their rents in November, or that a host of evictions are probable.

The second reading of the Parnell bill will take place on Friday.

Mr. Gladstone has privately announced that he will return to London on Saturday and that he hopes to take part in the debate on Monday. It is understood that he will support the Parnell bill. His promised presence is already rallying the Gladstonians.

The unionists' whips have sent an appeal to unionist members in the country to return to London and vote against the bill. The government also insists upon the recall of absentees.

Conservatives attempt to curtail the debate to one night will be in vain. The debate will probably extend over four nights.

MORE than twelve months ago a woman in LaGrange, Ga., while feeding a large flock of chickens, dropped a diamond ring from her finger, and not being able to find it, concluded that one of the fowls had swallowed it. It was not thought best to kill all the fowls in order to find it, but the internal arrangements of each fowl afterward killed were carefully examined. A week ago the ring was found. It was under the dirt just where it had been lost.

A RUSSIAN newspaper, one of whose reporters recently called upon Tolstoi, writes that the great novelist now lives in a common country house, consisting of one immense room, and filled with all sorts of necessary articles, including libraries of useful books and manual tools. His children work in turn at the bench or at the desk. When the one quits his manual labor the other leaves his intellectual task, and takes the other's place. Tolstoi's literary works are now read all over the world.

A FRIEND of Henry Villard says: "Mr. Villard has always regarded New York as his home. He will come back from Germany in the early fall with his family and will occupy the northern half of the big palace at the corner of Madison avenue and Fiftieth street, which is owned by Mr. Villard. He and his wife are probably worth about $500,000 between them. He has no railroad connections that I know of, except a small, obscure road away out west, of which he is President."

He goes over in the morning, does his day's work, and returns to Baltimore in the evening. He is never absent or tardy, and never asks for sick leave.

In the Dear Old Days.

We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss oft his blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balsam will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50c article for the hair.

THE RICHMOND CAPITOL.

WASHINGTON STATUE—THE ORIGIN OF THE CONFEDERATE SEAL

Told by Its Inventor—Gossip About John Randolph of Roanoke and His Drunken Eccentricities—His Granite Tomb in Hollywood Cemetery, Etc., Etc.

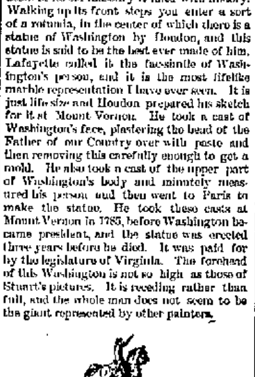

[Special Correspondence.]

RICHMOND, August.—The Capitol at Richmond is one of the oldest buildings in this country. It stands in the center of the city and is surrounded by a rolling park filled with fine old trees in which the gray squirrels chirp and the birds sing. These squirrels run about over the walks by hundreds. They crawl into the baskets of people who set them down for a moment while they chat with their neighbors; and I saw a lady feeding one as I walked about the grounds. She stooped down and held a bit of cracker in her hand which the squirrel nibbled as though it had been accustomed to the society of ladies all its life. The Capitol building was laid after a model selected by Thomas Jefferson, and it looks somewhat like the old Roman temple at Nismes, France, known as the Maison Carrée. Its corner stone was laid nine years after the Declaration of Independence was signed, and it now contains some of the oldest records in this country.

THE CAPITOL AT RICHMOND.

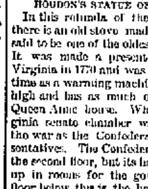

In its halls Jefferson, Madison and Monroe have spoken, and nearly every noted Virginian has sat in them as a member of the state legislature. During the war it was the capitol building of the Confederate states. The Confederate congress sat in it and every atom of its old masonry is filled with history. Walking up its front steps you enter a sort of a rotunda, in the center of which there is a statue of Washington by Houdon, and this statue is said to be the best ever made of him. Lafayette called it the facsimile of Washington's person, and it is the most lifelike marble representation I have ever seen. It is just life size and Houdon prepared his sketch for it at Mount Vernon. He took a cast of Washington's face, plastering the head of the Father of our Country over with paste and then removing this carefully enough to get a mold. He also took a cast of the upper part of Washington's body and minutely measured his person and then went to Paris to make the statue. He took these casts at Mount Vernon in 1785, before Washington became president, and the statue was erected three years before he died. It was paid for by the legislature of Virginia. The forehead of this Washington is not so high as those of Stuart's pictures. It is receding rather than full, and the whole man does not seem to be the giant represented by other painters.

HOUDON'S STATUE OF WASHINGTON.

In this rotunda of the Richmond capitol there is an old stove made of iron which is said to be one of the oldest stoves in existence. It was made a present to the colony of Virginia in 1770 and was spoken of at that time as a warming machine. It is seven feet high and has as much ornamentation as a Queen Anne house. What is now the Virginia senate chamber was occupied during the war as the Confederate house of representatives. The Confederate senate was on the second floor, but its hall has now been cut up in rooms for the government. On the floor below this is the hall of the house of delegates, where Aaron Burr was tried before Chief Justice Marshall for treason and where the state secession convention met in 1861. Pictures of Chatham and Jefferson hang upon the walls and the delegates sit with a little old fashioned school-like desk in front of them. On the opposite side of the rotunda on the second floor is the state library which has 35,000 volumes and the walls of which are hung with curiosities. Here is Stonewall Jackson's last dispatch to Lee, written just before he died. It is on a half sheet of common letter paper, the edges of which are ragged where it was evidently torn off in a hurry. It is written with a pencil, and the handwriting is as small as that of a woman. In it Jackson announces his trust in Providence in speaking of his situation and signs it: "Respectfully, T. J. Jackson."

Judge A. R. Boteler, the pardon clerk of the attorney general's office, is one of the fine old gentlemen about Washington who have made a great deal of history. He was a representative from Virginia in the United States congress at the opening of the war, and during the rebellion he was a member of the Confederate congress. He is a man of fine education and great literary attainments. He was chairman of the house committee of the Confederate congress which designed the Confederate flag, and he himself was the designer of the seal of the Confederate States of America. This seal consisted of a picture of Washington on horseback, surrounded by a wreath made up of the agricultural products of the south.

CONFEDERATE SEAL.

I asked him how he came to select this design. He replied: "At the time the Confederate seal was discussed there were many ideas proposed for it, and some of these were very ridiculous ones. Some of the more ignorant of the Confederate congress were opposed to having any Latin words upon the seal, and I remember one delegate who denounced the Latin as a dead language. Judah P. Benjamin had, at this time, proposed that a new plan be adopted in the naming of the money coinage of the south, and that the unit or dollar be called by the name of 'Cavalier' instead of dollar. This took very well, and there was great talk for some time of the cavaliers, half cavaliers and quarter cavaliers, which were to represent the money of the south. It was during this discussion that one night I was walking in company with Mr. Preston past the statue of Washington in the capitol grounds at Richmond. We were talking of the seal and coinage, and when Preston made some remark about the statue it struck me at once that Washington was the ideal cavalier of America, and that his figure would make an appropriate design for the Confederate seal. I had an artist of Richmond draw a design from it, and this design was sent off to London to James M. Mason, who was the Confederate minister there. He had the seal made by Wyatt, the man who has for years made the great seals of England, and it was sent back to the Confederate government."

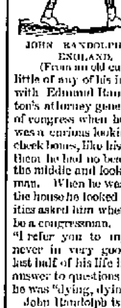

Judge Boteler tells me that the scrap book of designs which I spoke of about a year ago as existing in the war department, containing ideas for a Confederate flag, comprises only a small amount of the large number which were received. Said he: "We received very many designs at Montgomery, and when it was found that the first flag was not distinguishable from the Union flag in battle, and a second one was proposed, designs came in by the hundreds daily, and we had altogether as many as would have filled a packing box big enough to hold a piano top. A great many of these designs came from England. Many of them were by ladies, and some were made of satin and silk of various colors. Some were very ridiculous, and out of all symmetry or propriety. Many had the idea of the rattlesnake with the words, 'Don't tread on me, it is certain death,' and others were made up of the moon, stars and all the signs of the zodiac put up in different shape and forms."

John Randolph, of Roanoke, now reposes in the Hollywood cemetery at Richmond. I visited his tomb the other day. It is in the new part of the cemetery, far away from those of Presidents Monroe and Tyler. It consists of an immense slab of granite, five feet wide and seven feet long. This slab is about a foot thick, and it rests upon a base flat upon the ground. A smooth granite wall round at the top and about eight inches high surrounds the lot in which the monument lies, and on the slab is the inscription:

JOHN RANDOLPH, OF ROANOKE,
Born June 6, 1773.
Died March 24, 1833.

His remains were removed from Charlotte county, West Virginia, to this spot Dec. 18, 1879.

And this is all that is left of John Randolph. Descended from Powhatan through his several times great grandmother Pocahontas, he stalked in upon the stage of American history proud of his Indian descent. His life was made up of eccentricities, and the story of it reads like a romance. His father left him wealthy, and he had everything to make life pleasant. He was endowed with great natural ability, and he had opportunities for the best of educations. He went to half a dozen noted colleges, including Princeton, but he said he learned but little of any of his instructors. He studied law with Edmund Randolph, who was Washington's attorney general, and he was a member of congress when he was 25. John Randolph was a curious looking fellow. He had high cheek bones, like his Indian ancestors, and like them he had no beard. He parted his hair in the middle and looked more like a boy than a man. When he was sworn in as a member of the house he looked so young that the authorities asked him whether he was old enough to be a congressman. He replied with dignity: "I refer you to my constituents." He was never in very good health, and during the last half of his life his customary response in answer to questions about his health was that he was "dying, dying, dying."

JOHN RANDOLPH IN ENGLAND.
(From an old cut.)

John Randolph is said to have been very tall and thin, with a short body and long legs and arms. His long, bony fingers have gone into history from the way he used to point them at his enemies in congress. His forefinger and his foot were the parts of his body which he used most in gesticulation, and it is said that his finger seemed to have no bone in it when he thus used it. After it had accomplished what it had been called into action for it would fall over on the back of his hand as limp as a string. Randolph's eye was very bright and piercing, and I find that nearly all of the men who have written about him speak of its wonderful brilliancy. He had delicate feet and he often patted these on the floor while he was speaking. He drew up his feet when walking, and did not throw them forward boldly. He walked like an Indian and he dressed like an English dude. He was fastidious about his clothes, and he wore the most fantastically fashionable apparel. He had a remarkably shrill voice, but it was soft and flute like and of great carrying power. No matter how sick Randolph was he could make all about him hear and his voice went to the most remote corners of the large audiences which he addressed. He was a good singer and was fond of music. He drank a great deal at times and there are some authorities who believe that his insanity and eccentricity were largely the result of drinking.

He was never married, but in his letters, which I have read very carefully, he often refers to his love, and it is said that his sweetheart married Peyton Randolph, the son of Edmund Randolph who was secretary of state under Washington. This girl's name was Maria Ward and it is said that Randolph was engaged to her for some years when the engagement was broken off. Randolph left the presence of his sweetheart very angrily, and that so much so that he would not stop to untie the halter strap which fastened his horse to the fence. He whipped out his knife and cut it off and then galloped away. This Maria Ward is described as having been the greatest belle of Virginia at that time, and Gen. Lafayette was so charmed with her when he came to this country that he wanted to adopt her as his daughter and take her to France. She died, however, before he left this country. Randolph never paid attention to another woman. He calls Miss Ward "his angel" in his letters, and in one of them he strangely says: "I love, aye, and was loved again, not wisely but too well."

Randolph was a very good business man. He had a great number of slaves and he treated them very well, save when he got angry. In his will he freed them, and he was very particular in making the will strong enough to accomplish this end. He was a great lover of horses and kept the best. He had some of the best race horses in the country during his days, and I doubt not he was accustomed to bet upon the races. In his duel with Clay he acted in a very high toned manner. He did not shoot at Mr. Clay but fired his pistol into the air. He made up with Clay before he died, and at one time when he thought he was dying he had himself carried into the senate that he might hear Clay speak.

Randolph had little care for other men's feelings. He delighted in saying mean things and seldom thought twice in making a remark as to how deep it might cut. He was a supercilious fellow, and even on his deathbed he criticised the language of his doctor. His doctor asked: "Mr. Randolph, do you lay easy?"

Randolph replied with an emphasis on the italicized words: "I lie as easily as a dying man can."

JOHN RANDOLPH'S GRAVE.

John Randolph was an infidel during the greater part of his life. During another part of it he was an enthusiastic Christian. Part of the time he was apparently insane, and for a long time he was an opium eater. His whole life was made up of queer acts and strange eccentricities. He will always remain a riddle to the historians.

In Matters Concerning the Health

How careful a person should be,
Its far more important than wealth;
To this I'm sure you'll agree:
When tossed and afflicted with pain,
Pond's Extract you'd wish to apply,
From base imitations refrain
And only the genuine buy.
Let not 'price' on your judgment obtrude,
For nothing is cheap that's not good.

It is a notorious fact that not one-half of the convicts buried in the prison cemetery are lying there to-day. The majority of the remains have found their way to dissecting tables almost before the bodies have been in the ground long enough to become cold. In early times there was no trouble in lifting the stiffs, but now if the practice is carried on it has to be kept very quiet.

Above all earthly ills,
I hate the big, old fashioned pills;
By slow degrees they downward wend,
And often pause, or upward tend;
With such discomfort are they fraught,
Their good effects amount to naught.
Now, Dr. Pierce prepares a pill—
That just exactly fills the bill—
A Pellet, rather, that is all—
A pleasant Purgative and small;
Just try them as you feel their need
You'll find I speak the truth indeed.

CANADIAN FIREMEN.

The Clumsy Fire Machines of Our British Neighbor.

[Special Correspondence.]

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14.

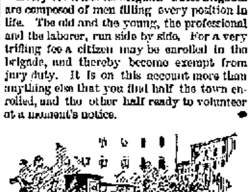

engines, both steam and hand-power, have always afforded a vast amount of study to man. Even the street Arab, with his blacking box and cigar stump, can tell you all about the "machine," the men that run it and the origin and full particulars of all the fires that occur on his habitual route.

In the matter of fire apparatus Canada finds herself far behind the age. With the exception of a very few cities in the western provinces, you can only find the old "hand machines," similar to those used in New York before the powerful steam engine made its appearance.

THE HAND MACHINE.

Every town has its brigade. These brigades are composed of men filling every position in life. The old and the young, the professional and the laborer, run side by side. For a very trifling fee a citizen may be enrolled in the brigade, and thereby become exempt from jury duty. It is on this account more than anything else that you find half the town enrolled, and the other half ready to volunteer at a moment's notice.

GOING TO THE FIRE.

With the first cry of "fire" the fun and excitement begins. Fun, because all routine business is laid aside in a moment, and a wild chase for the engine house instituted. Excitement, because men, women and children run here, there and everywhere. Shouting, yelling, blackguarding and mud rolling is the order. The first person reaching the engine-house gives the general alarm by ringing the bell. The machine is run out, every one present grabs the rope, and off they go at a break-neck pace.

Every active member is provided with a uniform consisting of a helmet and white blouse. These he keeps at home; but he is supposed to wear them at a fire in order to be distinguished from a volunteer. As the machine is run down the street, the wives and daughters of the "actives" appear at the doorways with the uniforms. The gymnastic feats performed by these men, while running through the streets, discarding their coats and hats for their uniforms, beggars description.

At the fire, every one is at perfect liberty to do as he pleases. A rush for the house is the first grand move. Every available article is carried off. Sometimes the unlucky owner has to skirmish all over the town before he has collected all his furniture. When a saloon is burned the property (in the form of liquids) very frequently finds its way to very distant localities. On one occasion two "actives" rescued a keg of Scotch whisky, carried it to a house three miles distant and never left it for four days. On "brigade picnic days," the entire force, both active and volunteer, go out for sport, and leave the town to the mercy of Providence.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Mr. John Harries, one of our most respected German citizens and business men, died at his residence, on West Jefferson street, at 11 o'clock last night. He was fifty-six years old and came to this city about forty years ago. For many years he has been engaged in the hardware business. He leaves a widow and four children, besides a brother, Fred Harries, who has a farm near the city, and two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Tectmeyer, of this city, and Mrs. Dr. Hardley, of Ann Arbor. While excavating for the Nickel Plate bridge under the old canal aqueduct, workmen found a Mexican silver coin of the date of 1782 and a horse shoe of primitive construction. They lay ten feet below the bottom of the river. Another novelty has been discovered at Huntington. It is a press used in the manufacture of counterfeit coin in 1832, and will be one of the curiosities exhibited at the Huntington county fair. Four or five of the cars were wrecked and the engine badly demolished. A brakeman was slightly hurt. It took all Sunday to get the cars on the rails again.

A Pennsylvania official says the heavy west bound freight traffic is simply due to a revival of business all along the line. Many merchants postponed making their heavy purchases until the last moment, fearing a recurrence of labor troubles, and now they have all come in together, and it keeps the officials busy to provide sufficient cars to carry the tonnage. The equipment of the road will have to be increased if the rush continues. The freight business, too, has received a wonderful impetus on account of natural gas enabling manufacturers to give prices on their products that can't be touched by their competitors outside of the gas district.

The Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad expect to have their new Muskegon branch completed by the 1st of December. The ties and rails are being laid very rapidly on the graded portion, while a large force of men are working at other points.

Dr. J. W. Younge continues to improve and is in good spirits. The statement that the extent of his injury has been exaggerated is simply ridiculous. The doctor was almost mortally wounded and is still a sick man. His surgeons are honorable professional men and would have no object to lie about their patient.

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church of Bluffton, have united with their pastor, Rev. George U. Mitchell, in a request to the Fort Wayne Presbytery, to dissolve the relation between them. Mr. M. stands high at Bluffton and his resignation is regretted. He has been called by the Fifth Presbyterian church of Indianapolis.

Elijah Hogue and Zach Richards, of Wells county, who were arrested by Sheriff Kirkwood and brought to the Fort Wayne jail, upon the charge of passing counterfeit money, were given a hearing to-day and Commissioner Jim. Harper at once discharged the men. More arrests are looked for as considerable counterfeit money has lately gone into circulation.

Mike Kaylor, the brick yard man, filled up on oratorical liquor last night and his triumphant march from Main street to the south depot were a series of robust campaign speeches. Mike is so constituted he can talk a wheel off a freight car, and to prevent any such calamity, Officer Rohlelocked him up. He paid a fine at the mayor's court, or some one paid it for him and it is hoped this will choke the fellow's ardor off for a while.

Emma Abbott's Great Love Opera.

In Paul and Virginia on Thursday night, Emma Abbott will appear in one of her strongest roles, that of Virginia. The following notice from the Washington Post, show how popular the opera is in the capital:

"Miss Abbott's voice and her girlish appearance are suited to the part of Virginia, and she gives the character that peculiar mixture of maidenly innocence or intense passion which are absolutely necessary to entirely fill the breadth of expression. Michelena takes the part of Paul to perfection; the brotherly love and tenderness, the despair intermingled with a natural jealousy at parting, and the broadening of his affection into passionate love, with the attendant emotion are all faithfully portrayed, in both voice and action. The audience went wild over the beautiful love duet between Paul and Virginia, and recalled the singers five times. The exquisite bird song was given by Miss Abbott with all the range of a wonderful voice

HEWITT HELD,

And Reid is Acquitted of Arson by the Grand Jury—A Compliment to Splendid Officers.

The grand jury reported two more indictments this afternoon. One was against Frank Lavanway for petit larceny and one against Wm. Hewitt for arson, Kyle & Reid's hat store.

Henry O'Brien, confined in jail on a charge of larceny was ordered released.

Fred C. Reid, under bail on a charge of arson, was discharged from his recognizance, no indictments being returned against him. The grand jury was discharged until further orders after reporting everything in the most excellent order at the jail, save that the furnace needs repairing. They highly compliment Sheriff Nelson's diligence and care as well as the cleanliness and discipline of the prison.

The grand jurors say that the county asylum is managed to perfection by Supt. John Wilkinson, whom they speak of in high praise. They again make a strong demand on the county commissioners to reconstruct the insane wards so that the doors will open outward and the unfortunate people will not be burned in the event of a fire.

Mr. Bent Wilson, of the Indianapolis Sentinel, is in the city working up the circulation of his paper.

W. D. Maier announced himself to-day as a candidate for county clerk.

Work has begun on the Wabash water system.

The Indiana annual conference of the Wesleyan Methodist church, in session at Greensborough, Henry county, supplied the following circuits: Albion, Rev. Mr. Goodwin; Boxley, W. H. Before her departure Mrs. Wignex took the two children and left them at the home of her father, remarking that she would return shortly for them. The woman is of good reputation and has always been treated kindly by her husband.

Academy of Music.

The Academy of Music opened last night under the management of Messrs. Robinson & Lemond, of Detroit, presenting A. C. Miller's dramatic company in "The Three Widows." The plot is an old one, but the play is in excellent hands. Mr. Miller is no stranger to Fort Wayne theatre goers, and Mrs. Miller is also quite popular. They are supported by a first-class company, who move the action of the play along with briskness that is pleasing and refreshing. The audience, which was not very large made up for its lack of numbers, in thusiasm, and evidently was high pleased, judging from the almost continual roar of laughter with which the Academy rang. As the management states: "The play is intended to make you laugh, and show the troubles of young man who, in spite of himself, be comes engaged to three young an charming widows. It is full of musica hits, laughable absurdities and situation and is sure to please." It will be repeated each night during the week at the matinees to-day, Thursday and Saturday. The new proprietors are bound to bring attractions here that will please, and will present them at popular prices. THE SENTINEL heartily recommends the performance given this week as clean, healthy and funny. No one should fail to see it.

Maumee Township Politics.

To the Editor of the SENTINEL:

Since the smoke of battle has cleared away, we will try to give your readers the political situation in Maumee.

It appears that Shirley, the old standby, has wrested the sumity of a few who style themselves democrats, and early in May formed what they called the "O Andrew Jackson Hickory Club. Said club was ostensibly for the purpose disposing Shirley from political influence and to control delegates and dictate who the township officers should be.

It was quite evident that the club would win, as it had held weekly meetings and received aid from aspiring candidates, who did not really understand the intention of the club.

Everybody was worked up to fever heat. No presidential campaign ever stirred up our people more. They had confidence in Shirley's friends; while on the other hand the club was sure of everything.

But fortune once more smiled on the side of true democracy, and the club was defeated on all sides by a decided majority.

It is well known that Maumee is a republican township, but in spite of this, by the management of Mr. Shirley and his friends, we have elected democrats to office for the last twelve years, and you can rest assured that we will be found at our post of duty in November, working for and voting the straight democratic ticket.

We are well pleased with our county ticket, and would have given a hearty support if other aspirants had been nominated instead. We all read THE SENTINEL and recognize it as the true exponent of democracy of old Allen.

Yours for success, A DEMOCRAT.
